

Make a webpage that helps to transform a value from kilometers to miles. The end result should look something like this:

Length Conversion

km =

31.1 miles

It must include:

1. One input field where the user can enter the input value
2. A button to do the calculation
3. A field where the output is displayed
4. The output must be shown with one decimal precision